Unit 5: Shadows and Reflections

In Unit 5, Shadows and Reflections, children explore the properties and aesthetics of light, as well as the ways light is beneficial to people and animals. Children learn the science of shadows and reflections through hands-on investigations and exploration. In Small Groups and in Centers, children explore how light is used to convey feelings, emotions, and ideas in art and design. In this unit, there are numerous opportunities for children to investigate scientific concepts outdoors. In Unit 6, Things That Grow, the concepts and ideas studied in Unit 5 will be expanded and extended as children learn how light is necessary in life cycles of plants and animals.

Children continue to work collaboratively, develop interpersonal skills, and communicate their ideas and understandings effectively. Letter recognition, phonemic awareness, concepts of print, and vocabulary development skills continue to be developed and refined.

Big Ideas

- Light comes from natural and artificial sources.
- Shadows and reflections are products of light.
- Light affects people, animals, and things.

Guiding Questions

- What are sources of light?
- How does light affect the way things look?
- How is light important for people and animals?
