

Summer Learning Newsletter Ideas

Beginning of the Summer
June 1

HAVE YOUR CHILDREN BEEN DREAMING ABOUT SUMMER?

It's Here, and It's is a Time to Keep Children Dreaming with Reading!

Children work hard during the school year and they are learning a lot. Despite that work, they can lose what they learn during breaks and summer. When that happens, they return to school behind.

This summer, we want to help children attending our (Program Name) maintain what they learned over the summer—and that's where parents come in. This summer our staff will be providing you with easy tips and information to support your child's learning throughout the summer.

Did you know?

- Over the summer, students can lose up to three months of knowledge from the previous grade.
- Children who read books over the summer can maintain or improve their reading skills.
- Nine in ten teachers spend at least three weeks re-teaching lessons at the start of the school year. So get ready! You'll hear our staff talking about summer learning at drop-offs, pick-ups and through texts and Facebook posts. June 29-July 3 is Summer Learning Week—so we'll be celebrating learning that's fun!

We look forward to working with you to support students being ready to learn what's next in school! You can reach us at (enter contact information) to discuss further.

Summer Learning Newsletter Ideas

Middle of the Summer
June 29

CELEBRATE SUMMER LEARNING WEEK FROM JUNE 29-JULY 3!

We're celebrating Summer Learning Week with a whole lot of learning fun!

Our children work hard during the school year, and they are learning a lot! Despite that work, they can lose what they learn during breaks. When that happens, they come back to school behind. We want to help children maintain their learning over the summer so they will be ready to learn what's next in school!

When your child gets home from Summer Learning Week, ask them about it and then read a book with them.

Summer Learning Newsletter Ideas

End of the Summer
August 3

SCHOOL'S ALMOST HERE, AND YOUR CHILDREN ARE READY!

A big thanks to all of our parents! We appreciate your enthusiasm and support of our effort to keep summer learning front-and-center for all children that attend our program.

Many of you told us that our newsletters, social media posts, text/call tips, and the fact sheet we provided were helpful. Together, we can support students being ready to learn what's next in school!

We all have big dreams for our children. So remember—we can prevent our children from losing ground over breaks. This will help students be ready to learn what's next in school.

- Read with your children and listen to them read to you.
- Encourage children to read 20 minutes every day and especially over winter, spring, and summer breaks.
- Ask them questions about what they are reading.

Here's to a successful school year for all children!