ETHICAL POLICIES

As defined by Mississippi Code Annotated §25-4-103, all employees of the Department of Education are public servants employed and compensated by the State of Mississippi. A high degree of public trust has been placed on each position and in each employee. All employees should be mindful of this trust and should conduct themselves with professionalism and in such a manner as to reflect this trust. Employees must avoid all actual or potential conflicts between their public responsibilities and duties and their private affairs. Every effort should be undertaken to minimize even the appearance of any such conflict.

Employees shall not participate in trips sponsored and paid for by vendors. Supervisors are cautioned to monitor this activity very closely and make sure that all staff members are in compliance.

In applying these guidelines, it is important to remember that they are designed to minimize the appearance of situations which may damage the integrity of the Department of Education in the eyes of the general public and local school districts. Any activity not specifically covered by these guidelines, but which might have the potential of undermining the credibility of the agency, should be avoided or be minimized.

All employees shall fully comply with Mississippi Code Annotated § 25-4-104 and any other sections that might be relative. In particular, an employee shall not be a contractor, subcontractor or vendor of the Department of Education. Employees of the Department are not to enter into a contract with a public school district of the State of Mississippi unless prior written approval is granted by the State Superintendent. Further, an employee is not to enter into a contract with a university or other entity to which they or their office awards a grant.

CONFLICT OF INTEREST

Employees are not to engage in any activity in either a private or official capacity where a conflict of interest may exist. All activities that could affect an employee's objectivity in job performance or in making job-related decisions should be avoided. Membership in professional and civic organizations are encouraged by the Department, provided the participation does not adversely affect the individual's role as a public servant and provided that these organizations do not seek financial assistance from the Department. Situations which may involve a conflict of interest are detailed below.

Accepting Gratuities

Employees or members of their immediate families are not permitted to accept gratuities or favors from individuals and/or groups who conduct business with, or whose business interests are affected by the Department or any of its functions. Unsolicited advertising products or promotional materials of nominal value, such as pens, pencils, note pads, calendars, and other such items may be accepted from individuals and/or groups, who conduct business with, or whose business interests are affected by the Department or any of its functions, when offered to a substantial number of their customers for public relations purposes. This provision includes vendors, consultants, and others who have business connections with the Department.

Employees must not utilize their positions to obtain benefits in the form of money, property, commercial interest or any other economic gain for themselves, their relatives, or any family business interests. Employees should never disclose information obtained from their employment with the Department in any way which might result in any of these benefits. Employees must also guard themselves against the appearance of such conflicts.

If an employee has a question concerning involvement in any organizations or about situations which may involve a conflict of interest, he or she should discuss it with his or her immediate supervisor.

POLITICAL ACTIVITY

Employees are afforded a work environment free from political influence or coercion. To maintain this work environment, employees are prohibited from engaging in any political activities during normal working hours. Employees are also prohibited from participating in a political campaign which would directly imply that the Department of Education has endorsed a particular candidate. An example of this would include making an endorsement of a candidate using the affiliation with the Department.

Mississippi law states that employees of an agency cannot be coerced politically by state officials. The law contains the following provisions:

- Employees in state service positions are not obligated by reason of their employment to contribute to a political fund or render a political service. Employees may not be removed from their positions or be prejudiced in any way if they refuse to support a particular candidate.

- No state service employee or state official is allowed to directly or indirectly give, render, pay, offer, solicit or accept any money, service or other valuable in consideration for or on account of any appointment/promotion (actual or proposed), or any other employment advantage concerning a state service status position.

State employees whose principal employment is in connection with an activity financed in whole or in part by loans or grants from the United States or an agency thereof, must abide by the provisions of the Federal Hatch Act. This Act restricts political activities such as solicitation of contributions or utilization of the official position to influence or interfere with the outcome of an election or nomination.

FRAUD, WASTE AND ABUSE

It is the policy of the Department of Education to thoroughly investigate all suspected cases of fraud, waste and abuse. All reports of suspected fraud, waste and abuse will be handled in the strictest confidence. Informants may remain anonymous, but are encouraged to cooperate fully with investigators and provide as much detail and evidence of the suspected fraud, waste or abuse as possible. State law grants certain protections to whistleblowers, and any retaliation against employees who report suspected fraud, waste and abuse is strictly prohibited (Mississippi Code Annotated § 25-9-173).

Fraud is defined as the use of one's occupation for personal enrichment through the deliberate misuse or misapplication of the employing organization's resources or assets. Examples of fraud include breach of fiduciary duty, bribery, concealment of material facts, theft of money or physical property, theft of secrets or intellectual property, and other statutory offenses.

Waste is defined as the loss or misuse of State resources that results from deficient practices, system controls, or decisions. An example of waste is not taking advantage of an available prompt pay discount.

Abuse is defined as the intentional, wrongful, or improper use of resources or misuse of rank, position, or authority that causes the loss or misuse of resources, such as tools, vehicles, computers, copy machines, etc. Examples of abuse are receiving favors for awarding contracts

Employees should disclose questionable actions to the Director of Compliance or the Director of Human Resources and will not be subject to workplace reprisal or retaliatory action.
